SeaNet co-founder Matty Zadnikar comments: "The great thing about SeaNet is that we are opening up the world of yacht co-ownership, we are complementing the current offering of chartering and full ownership, not detracting from it. SeaNet is a great opportunity that appeals to those who have dipped their toe into the yacht chartering but are wary of ownership, and those who have owned yachts (such as myself) but want to reduce the hassle of management, the annual running costs, and maximise their time spent on-board. In the future, SeaNet will continue to appeal to this audience but also the new generations of yacht owners who seek a different more attractive model to sole ownership that better suits their agenda."

SeaNet's unique co-ownership programme enables up to four owners to enjoy the complete yachting experience without the financial stress and hassle that comes with being a sole owner. For Belgian entrepreneur and experienced Benetti yacht owner Matty Zadnikar, SeaNet's co-ownership and yacht management has proved a smart solution.

SeaNet co-owners benefit from a significant reduction in the initial purchase cost of the yacht and also share the cost of yacht maintenance and management of crew, charter and moorings. On top of all that, they have a minimum guaranteed seven weeks (25 per cent) on board each year.

While the SeaNet crew takes care of you when on board, its yacht management team will handle everything on land: insurance, technical and safety services, accounting and ownership structures are all taken care of.

SPECIALIST, NOT GENERALIST

SeaNet has a global partnership with the Azimut-Benetti Group; the Italian shipyard renowned globally for its superior quality, attention to detail and craftsmanship.

A HOME FROM HOME

Purchasing a yacht is an emotive experience, so SeaNet wants to ensure that its co-owners feel that their yacht is a home from home. That's why every boat is fully personalised with the owner's wardrobe, linen, mattresses, art, family pictures and tableware before they even step on board. The only thing SeaNet owners have to worry about is making the most of their time on board. Every SeaNet yacht comes with a 10-metre luxury dayboat to ensure that you can reach those hidden coves and beaches for a truly unique experience.
